PRESBYTERIANS ASTIR.

Move to Provide for Deaconesses as Innovation.

Presbyterians of New York decided yes. erday to make a big effort to plant new Presbyterian churches in the city's suburbs. They voted to raise $1,000,000 as soon as possible for the extension. The occasion was the January meeting of the Presbytery, whose committee explained that $248,000 was expended on such work that $248,000 was expended on such work last year. The late John S. Kennedy left $1,800,000 for extension work, of which $900,000 has been used.

Important action was taken regarding deaconesses. New York leads in providing for them. This is a new move and was made possible by action of the General Assembly last May. Other churches already have deaconesses. The Presbyterion with Southern thereafter on all instances of divorce involving a Presbyterian minister.

MORGAN $600,000 FOR CHURCH. "Ministry" in Will Doesn't Mean "Clergy," Justice Decides.

Supreme Court Justice Cohalan decided vesterday that St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church, of which J. Pierpont Morgan was the senior warden, may use the income from a trust fund of $600,000 left to the church in Mr. Morgan's will for any purpose associated with the activi-ties of the church.

RIGGS ARMOR TO BE EXHIBITED JAN. 25

Reception to Members and Friends Will Inaugurate Novel Display at Metropolitan.

MOST IMPORTANT EXTANT

It was announced yesterday at the Metopolitan Museum of Art that the opening of the famous Riggs collection of armor was definitely fixed for the evening of Monday, January 25, when the trustees of the museum will give a reception to meinbers and their friends. After that the col-lection will be permanently open to the public in the spacious halls and galleries which were especially designed and built When Mr. Riggs announced his gift to the museum authorities a year ago last May be expressly stipulated that his armor should not be shown by itself as a collection, but should be amalgamated with the other objects in the museum. He explained that his purpose in collecting the pieces had been to interest the Amer-ican public in a branch of European art that was but little understood here, and that by uniting his collection with the other pieces of armor already owned by the museum the educational purpose that he had in mind could better be served. In arranging the armor this especially generous request upon the part of the owner has been carried out by Dr. Bash-ford Dean, the curator of armor in the museum. Pieces from the Dino and Ellis collections have been united with the Riggs specimens and the whole has been arranged in historical sequence, each label indicating the source from which the exhibit came.

The collection occupies the large court The collection occupies the large court in the north wing of the building, directly under the Morgan collections. CORTLANDT BEEKMAN DIES AT SARANAC LAKE

Son of Mrs. Katherine M. Beekman and Graduated From Williams in 1910.

Dr. Dean and the other museum officials are highly enthusiastic about the Riggs armor and say that it will come as a delightful surprise to the public. People who are not, they say, or who have hitherto thought they were not, interested in this subject, will certainly be impressed with the dramatic quality of the display as a whole and the manner in which it quickens the imagination into realizing this important phase of life in the Middle Ages.

As a unit the armor in the Metropolitan Museum will now rank among the most important collections in the world. It could not be duplicated now at any price. At the opening reception on the eventage of the Toy Spaniel Club of America died in the Control of the Cortlandt Beekman, son of the late
